

Tyrene Bada, MLS, CRM (she/her) is a Business Systems Analyst for the City of Beaverton, wrangling information governance with the precision of an archivist and the enthusiasm of a librarian on a treasure hunt. She stumbled into records management at Portland Community College, where she built its first records program from scratch.

A past president of the Oregon ARMA Chapter, Tyrene served on the ARMA International Board of Directors (2020–2023) and now chairs the ARMA International Conference Education Committee. She also contributes to the ICRM as a CRM exam part writer.

Armed with a Master's in Library Science from Emporia State University, she brings order to chaos—whether in data systems or theatre rehearsals. She proudly serves on the Board of Directors for the award-winning Broadway Rose Theatre and, as a professional cantor and chorister, spends her nights making music. In her downtime, you'll find her napping or lost in Taylor Swift's discography—her soundtrack for both productivity and relaxation.
